

CSIR-IICB Scientist bags the DBT National Bioscience Award for Career Development

Dr Suvendra N. Bhattacharyya, Principal Scientist and Head of Molecular Genetics Division of CSIR-Indian Institute of Chemical Biology; has won the very prestigious National Bioscience Award for Career Development for the year 2015. The award, given by Department of Biotechnology, Govt. of India, is to recognize outstanding contributions of young scientists below 45 years of age in basic and applied research and to provide grant for research for their career development. The selection of candidates for the award has been made on the basis of recommendations of Selection Committee. Dr Bhattacharyya has won this award for his notable contribution in miRNA research.